

Home

My Network

Jobs

Managing the effects of paralysis with Wearable Therapy®

Published on August 10, 2021

AxioBionics, LLC
100 followers

+ Follow

Drew Clayborn is a 21-year-old student at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He is a mathematical biology major, lives in a dormitory and is active in many school events.

This is a story about a young man who didn't let the results of random events dictate his life. In 2010, Drew was practicing a backflip for a school play at Walled Lake Central High when the unthinkable occurred: the high school sophomore landed wrong and broke his neck. That left him paralyzed and breathing on a ventilator. He was 15 years old at the time. The injury made it impossible to exercise and keep his body in good shape.

Drew uses Wearable Therapy® 3 to 5 hours a day to manage the effects of paralysis.

“The change was immediate.” He says.

“Since I began using the AxioBionics garments, I have had virtually no loss of muscle. I have very good muscle tone and minimal spasms.”

When asked what pieces of equipment he uses, Drew laughs and says, “All of them! I don’t have to wear any braces on my hands or feet though (to keep the muscles from contracting) because the garments exercise my muscles so well that my fingers and toes have never curled up.”

In addition to attending classes and living away from home part-time, Drew still does several hours of therapy every night and every morning before school. All of this keeps his body as healthy as possible.

Home

My Network

Jobs

...ability to sustain my life – no – I guess they give me the ability to live my life.”

Report this

Published by

AxioBionics, LLC

100 followers

Published • 4w

+ Follow

For the past 30 years, AXIOBIONICS has been producing custom wearable & intelligent neurostim powered devices for countless patients with major issues where his innovations have brought remarkable results and adding significant improvements to their quality of life.

Like Comment Share

4

Reactions

0 Comments

Add a comment...

AxioBionics, LLC

+ Follow

Home

My Network

Jobs

Community Guidelines

Careers

Marketing Solutions

Visit our Help Center.

English (English)

Privacy & Terms

Ad Choices

Advertising

Manage your account and privacy

Go to your Settings.

Sales Solutions

Mobile

Small Business

Safety Center

LinkedIn Corporation © 2021